Malay Crestless Fireback – Fundraiser Raffle 2023/24

The Malayan crestless fireback or Malay crestless fireback (Iophura erythrophthalma) is a small tropical pheasant found in both Malaysia and Indonesia and belongs to the Firebacks-a group of pheasants which support a yellow to rich chestnut-coloured saddle that is best shown off when the males are displaying (with energetic wing whirring) before the females. The species has recently been assessed as critically endangered by IUCN Redlist and is at imminent risk of extinction in the wild. Being distributed not only on the Malay Peninsula but also on the Indonesian island of Sumatra, the species falls right into our focus on highly threatened Indonesian species.
